[00:00:00] Jeff Dichter: Hi, I am Jeffrey Dichter, a professor of medicine at the University of Minnesota in the Twin Cities. What inspired me to be a physician was I really wanted to go into a profession where I could help other people. And it's been a wonderful career and it's been successful in that. Part of the thing we learn as a professional and a physician is that you're able to not only provide care at times, but as you grow into your profession, you grow into other leadership roles and are able to do other things that help the person that you may be taking care of in front of you, but also help larger groups of patients or populations of patients. Something I would say to anybody thinking about going into medicine is it's a wonderful field and it's only gonna get better over time.
