[00:00:00] Radu Postelnicu: My name's Radu Postelnicu. I'm a pulmonary critical care physician from Bellevue Hospital in New York. Within NETEC, I'm the the co-chair for the adult care work group. I think for me the most important part is the opportunity to work with a huge amount of different staff from different backgrounds. So staff that works with the patients directly, staff that works in periphery, clinical staff, ancillary staff as well, and many people from different backgrounds, but also the opportunity to be with a patient and their families when they're at their most critical time. And so it's a privilege and an honor to be able to do that.
